Steve Bindernagel, a CCAD alumna and resident of Columbus will be exhibiting work in June at the Mahan Gallery, 1042 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43201.

In his work, Bindernagel creates ambiguous images that call the viewer to question what they see. His paints are about connections. They establish riddle, asking how maps and cellular structures both can give us clues to who we are. In some of his pieces, elements of landscape, aerial photography or city planning are more significant in the composition, but in others, shapes blend and form together, weaving in and out of the background surroundings to reference a living organism in motion and adapting.

By covering his paintings with beeswax, his pieces become hybrid objects, blending the synthetic acrylic paint with the natural warmth of the wax.

Bindernagel's opening reception will take place Saturday, June 5, 6-10pm. The show will be on display from June 5 through June 26.

The Mahan Gallery focuses on emerging and mid-career artists working in a variety of media, including painting, photography, and sculpture. Gallery hours are Monday-Friday from 11 am-7 pm; Saturday-Sunday 12 pm- 6 pm.
